Teen Dating Violence

Help the teens and young adults in your family and congregation be safe from partner violence.

Often, dating violence among young people differs from the types of violence experienced by adults.

For both age groups, signs of intimate partner abuse include physical and sexual violence, stalking, and psychological aggression.

However, among teens and young adults, relationship violence often manifests in more subtle forms:

- Peer pressure
- Spreading rumors
- Threats to expose a secret
- Convincing a partner to skip class or work
- Isolating a partner from family or friends
